About Visits in Ginza & Nihombashi Areas
The surroundings of Ginza and Nihombashi stations are the current and former trade districts of Tokyo. Many shops here have been in business for a century or more; some are the "honton" (first store opened by a successful family) while some are branches of famous Japanese brands founded far away (e.g. on Kyushu island). As a result, members of Japan’s high society shop here on a daily basis for special occasions. Both shopkeepers and customers appreciate your help in maintaining the local atmosphere and smooth business operations during your visit. Please always wearing shorts & sandals, be careful with your bags/cameras in narrow places, and greet the staff "Kon-ni-tichi-wa" ("Kon-ban-wa" on evenings) when you arrive.
